

Jason Cordier

Doctor of Philosophy in Strategic Management - Candidate, Massey University, Palmerston North, New Zealand

Post Graduate Diploma in Business & Administration, Massey University, Palmerston North, New Zealand

Post Graduate Certificate in Business, Massey University, Palmerston North, New Zealand

Bachelor of Commerce, University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand

In addition to studying his PhD on organizational well-being practices and the manner they are formulated and implemented as strategies and practices, Jason has a Post Graduate Diploma in Business and Administration awarded with distinction, a Post Graduate Certificate in Business, and a Bachelor of Commerce majoring in management.

Jason teaches, researches and consults within the field of management. He is a senior consultant for MTI Consulting headquartered out of Bahrain. The company undertakes strategic consulting activities globally specializing in organizational development, corporate finance and strategic management projects and has offices in eight countries and partners across the globe. His research interests are strategy as practice, institutional theory, RBV and higher education management.

Jason has European, Asian and Middle Eastern experience in the fields of Governmental Organizational Development, Islamic Finance, Agri-business, Oil & Gas, Asset Management and Diversified Conglomerates. He has managed projects for a wide array of organizations including American Express Middle East, Bahrain Oil & Gas Authority and the Government of Pakistan. He also has managed an AACSB Initial accreditation, and provides operational consulting services for business schools in this field.

Jason holds two directorships. The first is for KOTRI, a non-profit organization that KOTRI.org conducts initiatives to protect, preserve and maintain South Korean climbing areas. The second is for MTI Consulting, Sri Lanka. Jason is also a member of the Academy of Management, the Australia and New Zealand Academy of New Zealand and the European Group of Organization Studies. Additionally he is a member of the Kiwi Chamber of Commerce in South Korea.